3-year old class update

In the morning class, we are continuing our study of pumpkins! We also enjoyed the hot air balloons last week and learned more about what makes them float. To begin our Classical Art study, the students looked at pictures by 4 famous artists and voted for their favorite. Because Piet Mondrian was the winner, we will begin learning about the abstract artist and his paintings before creating a canvas painting of our own. We will also begin to transition into our study of transportation.

Meet our work-study students

Keele and Lourdes are with us a few days a week in the am and the pm class. We love having them with us.

Keele Flanigan

Keele is a senior Psychology major with a minor in Child Development and Family Studies. Her favorite children's book is "Love you Forever" by Robert Munsch.

Lourdes Giovengo

Lourdes is a junior Elementary Education major. Her favorite children's book is "The True Story of the Three Little Pigs."

4-year old class update

In the afternoon class, the children have been busy exploring fall leaves and pumpkins. Through various experiments, they were excited to learn about why leaves change color in the fall! They have explored pumpkins by identifying their parts and investigating the pumpkin life cycle. We have continued to work with 2D and 3D shapes, as well as various forms of measurement.

Cooler temperatures are coming.

- Please send a warmer extra change of clothes.
- Please ensure your child has on appropriate clothes for outdoor recess. We go outside everyday (except in the rain).
- Please label your child's coat with their name.
